Most three phase hybrid inverters discharge evenly across the phases (as is required by the NZ standard 4777.2), however if the load is not balanced (as it won't be in a residential house) then the inverter will send some of its power to the grid to support load that requires it on another phase.

Founded in 1997 by University Professor Renxian Cao, Sungrow is a global leader in research and development in solar inverters, with numerous patents and a broad product portfolio offering PV inverter systems as well as energy storage systems for utility-scale, commercial, and residential.
